

Earth Day for Kids

"We are back on Daytime, and April 22 is Earth Day a day to celebrate our environment."

"There's no better time to get your kids on the eco-friendly bandwagon. Kim Button from Get Green Be Well.com is here."

"For kids, make it fun for them now, and it will become a part of their lifestyle. There are all kinds of different science kits, and a lot of us wonder what happens when we recycle. With this one you can make paper, find out what it takes to make Styrofoam do compost in a test tube."

"There are all kinds of things you can do on a science level to get kids involved. They'll get the idea too overall, how to do this and where it goes."